I have a tremendous breadth of experience, but I also work hard to build on that knowledge. I listen to all sides, ask tough questions, seek critical information, and think through the future results of any decision before me. I won't be stampeded. I'm determined to use the respect I've gained in state government to shape rational policies that strengthen education, build a strong economy, and meet diverse human needs.

I am currently serving in my eighth year in the state House of Delegates. During my tenure, I have focused on the promotion of the bioscience and other technology industries, finding a long-term reliable source of revenue for transportation, and improving health care delivery. In the coming years, Virginia will be implementing the Affordable Care Act and I want to help make sure that all Virginians have access to quality health care.

Having spent my life in Mt. Vernon and Lee, I know our community's values. For too long, Richmond has ignored the challenges we face. I've spent the past two years in Richmond working hard to lay the ground work for a Yellow Line Metro extension and to improve U.S. 1, maintain our strong public education system, and bring better, higher paying jobs to our community. If re-elected, I promise I'll keep fighting for Mt. Vernon and Lee's fair share.
